

—Tribune Staff Photo by Tom Wharton

Almost a week after giant snowslides came down on Alta Ski Resort, workers Saturday continued to dig out cars covered by the avalanches. Although some of the cars were uncovered from under eight feet of snow, most of them were in shape to be driven.